SUMMARY

I'm Nguyen Vu Hoang Phuc, second year Computer Science student at Hochiminh city University of Technology. My desire is to be a good engineer, I am trying my best to achieve it. I have foundation knowledge about computer, programming and web development. I have basic knowledge about Javascript, Angular, MongoDB through some projects at university and work. I'm always willing to learn new things. Beside academic study I also participate in social work whenever I can.

PASSION

My favorite quote is "If you don't influence the world, the world will influence you." as a Computer Science student the way I choose to affect the world is to be an machine learning engineer. This is a very difficult field for me but I am taking small steps to become better. Alongside with machine learning I also explore other parts of Infomation Technology web development, the process of making a web site is really exciting for me. As a student, I am learning as much as possible to have a general knowledge and discover my best potential.
